RESUME OF KENNETH LEON PATTERSON

Kenneth L. Patterson, Supply Corps, U. S. Navy, was born in Antioch, California on 1 July 1939. He attended San Jose State College, San Jose, California, majoring in physical science and engineering; Diablo Valley College in Concord, California, majoring in electronics; and received the degree of Bachelor of Arts from San Francisco State College, majoring in industrial arts education. In February 1971 he received the degree of Master in Business Administration from George Washington University in Washington, D. C.

Upon graduation from San Francisco State College he entered the Navy, was commissioned an Ensign after Naval Officer Candidate School and was assigned to the USS SAINT PAUL (CA-73). He next completed the six months Supply Indoctrination course at the Navy Supply Corps School in Athens, Georgia; a two-year tour as Supply Officer of the USS NECHES (AO-47); and 13 months as the Special Assistant to the Director of Procurement at the Naval Supply Center, Puget Sound, Bremerton, Washington.

In February 1971 he was assigned as Division Director, Contract Support Division, and later as Assistant Division Director for the Surface Warfare Weapons Systems Procurement Division at the Naval Ordnance System Command in Washington, D. C.

In July 1976 he completed two years as Assistant Supply Officer, and project manager for an extensive habitability renovation program, on USS SAN JOSE (AFS-7).

In August 1976 he joined the faculty of the Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, California, where he is teaching in the Department of Administrative Sciences.

He has received his designation as a Certified Professional Contracts Manager, from the National Contract Management Association.
